[Commissioners provided with the following: draft data book]

The quality of early care and education is improving in San Francisco County based on elements of quality defined by the QRIS matrix.

One hundred-forty-three centers and thirty-three family child care sites were recently re-rated as participants of the Quality Improvement and Rating System (QRIS), and the results are significant.

- 53% of Centers and 84% of FCC increased their rating by 1-2 stars
- Sites with 5 stars, the highest rating increased from 4 to 30 sites
- 88% of Centers and 100% of FCC maintained or increased their overall point scores

After their initial rating, QRIS early care and education programs can access coaching, training, technical assistance, incentives and other support to meet improvement goals. Scores of three or higher mean that programs have met or exceeded quality benchmarks in areas that have the greatest impact on children's learning and development, such as staff education and training, child-teacher interactions, and providing safe, enriching environments and age-appropriate instruction.

There was no public comment.
