Background

Starting in 2005, First 5 San Francisco matched funding for direct family support services with funding to support the quality implementation of direct family support services.

These efforts have led to the development of standards of quality for family support practice, certificates for quality case management and family economic success practice, inter-agency field building and offerings of trainings and technical assistance as requested by the family support field.

This RFP is meant to continue these past efforts to support staff to build the quality of the connections to resources and engagement with families. It continues funders' priority of quality implementation for activities they fund.

Grant Expectations and Outcomes

❖ Grants are expected to be able to achieve measurable impacts to support:

Goal:

Family support programs and systems improve families' ability to support children's life-long success

Outcomes

Family resource system staff has skills and knowledge to deliver high quality service to children and families

Scope of Work

Training and Technical Assistance

Grantee will facilitate a standard of quality practice in the field of family support through training and technical assistance based on evidence based practice and field priorities. This may include:

- ❖ Ensure staff have awareness of basic needs support resources and how to access them
- ❖ Case management practice basic skills
- ❖ Theoretical background to family support practice
- ❖ Principles of Family Support and their application for program development and serving families
- ❖ Impact of institutional and structural racism on families, family engagement and service delivery

Scope of Work

Network Development and Field Building

Grantee will work to strengthen relationships and collaboration among and between individual service agencies. This should include:

- ❖ For operational direct line staff - opportunities for networking and field building to build awareness of the range of services and resources available to assist families and development of inter-agency referral relationships.
- ❖ For leadership and executive staff – Enhanced relationships among leadership and executive staff should enhance inter-agency coordination and collaboration for the system of care supporting families. Interactions should support development of shared understandings of families’ needs and the resource/service gaps families face.

Scope of Work

Planning, Policy and Sustainability

Training, technical assistance, networking and field-building activities naturally lend themselves to enhancing systems and conditional changes for families and family support programs. A collective voice for the field can be developed and enhanced through each of the above components to support continuous quality improvement, elevate issues and priorities, inform policy and resource allocation, and ensure visibility and sustainability of the family support field at local, state and even national levels.

Grantee agency should seek to leverage grant funds with additional funding sought through its own efforts.

Scope of Work

Governance

The structure and membership of the governance structure should be reflective of the family service field of San Francisco. The governing body should meet with sufficient frequency to assess areas for prioritization and direction for training and technical assistance and network and field development activities. Substitution of a single non-profit board of directors would not be sufficient input for field representation for this project.

The selected entity will be asked in their application, to present a plan and proposed structure for balancing the above activities across the broader family support field of San Francisco, as well as to participants in large city-funded initiatives such as the Family Resource Center Initiative.
